Officials Discuss Joint Use Of Oxidation Pond

RICHARD FAYARD

Fayard Named To State Fire Planning Group

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Richard Fayard has been chosen to serve on the Planning Group for the 1973 State Fire School Program.

The announcement came in a letter from James S. Hart Jr., coordinator of the State Firefighting School.

Purpose of the Group is to coordinate all plans for next year's training school. The Planning Group will meet in Jackson October 27.

Fayard, 31, was named Fire Chief in March, 1972.

Infant Dies In Freak Accident

A 16-month old toddler died Sunday in Clermont Harbor when he was crushed under the wheels of a car driven by a friend of the child's parents.

The child, Paul Henry Farve, was the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Farve of Bayside Park. The Farves, were visiting at the Lower Bay Road home of James J. Wilkins when the accident occurred. According to a report by Sheriff's Deputy Fairley Necaise, Wilkins and Jimmy Johnston were repairing Johnston's 1961 Cadillac when the Farves arrived. About 5:30 p.m. Wilkins backed the car out of the driveway unaware that the child had crawled beneath the car. County coroner Emile Piazza's report showed that the rear wheels of the car ran over the baby's body, crushing the left side of the body and head.

A coroner's jury was empaneled with Constable Sam Perniciaro as bailiff, and as jurors Fairley Necaise, Robert Harvey, Melvin Barnes, Harold Heine, Harold Stiglet, Sam Perniciaro, Jr. The jury ruled death by accident.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday from Riemann Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis.

City officials from Waveland and Bay St. Louis met Friday with Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Comm. officers to discuss the possibility of the two cities joint use of the Bay St. Louis oxidation pond.

Waveland City Attorney Lucien Gex, Jr., in explaining the background on Waveland's sewer system, said that spiraling construction costs and many delays in acquiring an acceptable design for the collection system had precluded the availability of federal funding for both a collection system and treatment plant.

In 1970, when Waveland residents voted five to one in favor of the sewer system, estimated cost of both the collection and treatment systems was about $2.3 million, Gex said.

By this year, he continued it became apparent that construction cost for the collection system alone was equal to that of the entire system. Marvin Wicker, design engineer with Ware, Eaton and Lewis, consulting engineering firm for the city, redesigned the plans to the point where Waveland could, with federal funding, initiate construction of the collection system. Joint utilization of the Bay St. Louis oxidation pond was considered in the initial planning stages, Gex explained, but was disregarded in favor of a new and more acceptable treatment plant to be used by both cities.

Present prohibitive costs of construction and operation of a treatment system have reopened consideration of utilizing the pond, which could mean a $600,000 saving to Waveland, according to the attorney.

John Smith, Air and Water Pollution Comm. engineer, said that some charges and modifications would have to be made to the oxidation pond before it would be considered acceptable to EDA as well as the Environmental Protection Agency for use by the two cities. Smith and Glen Woods, A & WPC executive director, told the two mayors and city officials attending the meeting that addition of aerators to the pond, or conversion to a three-cell system might increase acceptability of the pond by federal agencies involved.

"Part of the reason for what seems like an unreasonable attitude on the part of federal agencies in such matters is often due to pressures from Congress," Woods stated. Cutbacks in allocations coupled with Congressional demands "to get hard and hold down on grant commitments" put agency officials in a proportionately difficult position regarding project funding, Woods added.

Woods cautioned that recent federal legislation ruled that every waste system in operation by 1977 must have a secondary treatment system. He advised strong consideration of the law before taking any definite steps toward acquisition of a treatment system.

Gex countered with the statement that city officials were informed by Lawrence Turner, EPA representative, in a February meeting in Atlanta and later in Washington, that if the city followed accepted plans for the collection system federal funding would be assured. Now that construction is underway for that phase of the project, Gex added that the city was trying to determine what funding could be expected for the treatment plant, or for a tie-in with the Bay St. Louis pond.

Bay St. Louis Commissioner Andre Arceneaux said he had received a letter from EDA stating that the city's oxidation pond, built to accommodate a 12,000 population system, would be improved by an increase over the present 5,000. Underloading, Arceneaux said, was attributed as the main reason for the pond not being, altogether satisfactory. However, joint use was being considered not to improve the pond, but as a possible solution to an untenable financial situation by both cities, he added. Smith said that he would arrange a meeting later this month with engineers and EDA representatives to determine what modifications could be made to the pond to render it acceptable to all agencies for joint use by the two cities.

Attending the Friday meeting with Gex, Smith and Woods were Mayor Garfield Ladner, Waveland Aldermen John Longo and Albert Grass, City Clerk Barbara Rappold, Mayor Warren Carver, Commissioners William Frisbie and Andre Arceneaux, Ray Eaton and Marvin Wicker.

Two Standing Trial For Aggravated Rape

The trial of two men, arrested September 11, 1971 in Hancock County and charged with aggravated rape of a 16-year-old Biloxi girl, began Tuesday in Hancock County circuit court under Judge Floyd Logan.

Henry Carthon Bennett and Gerald Lynn Burge, with Larry G. Bennett, picked up the girl and her 15-year-old brother on Highway 90 in Long Beach about 7:30 p.m. the night of Sept. 11, as the two juveniles were running away from their Biloxi home.

They drove, in a green pickup truck, to a location on Highway 607 in Hancock County, near the Miss. Test Facility where the girl later alleged that she was sexually attacked by the three men in the back of the truck.

The men were later arrested in Slidell and Picayune and brought to Hancock County jail by Emile Piazza, at that time a sheriff's deputy. The third defendant, Larry Bennett, requested a separate trial.

Three hours were spent Tuesday morning in selection of a special 12-man jury by state prosecution attorneys Albert Necaise and Harold DeMetz. Attorneys for the defense are Ruble Griffin and J. T. Campbell.

Five witnesses testified for the state in the afternoon session Tuesday. The courtroom was cleared of spectators when the plaintiff, now a 17-year-old high school senior, took the stand as the first witness.

Under questioning, she described details of the evening leading to the later alleged attack. The second witness, to testify was Dr. James H. Christman, an Air Force physician stationed at the Keelsier Air Force Base hospital who examined the girl about two hours after she was brought to the Hancock sheriff's department. Others testifying included the girl's brother, a security guard at a T.L. James Construction Co. shack on the highway where the two youths went for help after being released by the three men, and Emile Piazza, investigating and arresting officer in the incident.

The trial continued Wednesday in a day-long session.

Hunters Jump The Gun

A total of $2600 in fines was collected over the weekend as the result of 25 arrests made for game violations.

According to local game warden, Pat Toomey, charges for the arrests were for either hunting squirrels and rabbits out of season or possession of game animals in closed season. In some instances, Toomey said, people were charged with both violations.

Both Toomey and game warden C.J. Cameron made the arrests. Half of the money from the fines will go to the county general fund while the other half goes to the Mississippi State Game and Fish Commission.

Toomey reminded hunters that squirrel and rabbit season does not open until October 23.

SAFE BOATING

Flotilla 33 will sponsor a Safe Boating Course October 16 at St. Stanislaus. The course will begin at 7 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

MISS MTF TORCH, 1971-72, Margaret Gill, secretary of the Combined Agencies Campaign for 1972-73 at NASA's Mississippi Test Facility, Bay St. Louis, Miss., confers with Wallace Brown, drive chairman. Aiming at goal of $33,000 campaign duo are standing in front of symbolic torch rendition, and check mark utilized by MTF personnel in authorizing payroll deductions to fund.

Kickoff Set Today At MTF

Miss MTF Torch 1972-73, will be crowned during the Combined Agencies Campaign Kickoff ceremony 2 p.m., today in the Central Control Building of NASA's Mississippi Test Facility.

Jackson M. Balch, director, MTF, and general campaign chairman, made the announcement today following a session with the campaign committee.

"Miss MTF Torch judging will be by an independent panel of local area United Fund officials," Balch said. Miss Torch candidates are being sponsored by the various federal and state government agencies collocated at MTF as well as the major on-site support contractors.

Dianne Kelly and Thomas "Chuck" Ryan, Jr. will be principal speakers at the kickoff luncheon scheduled for 1 p.m. in the cafeteria. The pair, well known entertainers, will present a special, musical spectacular entitled, "Giving from the Heart," immediately prior to the coronation of Miss MTF Torch.

This year's goal is $33,000 to be donated to the United Funds of Harrison, Hancock and Pearl River Counties in Mississippi and the Greater New Orleans Area (St. Tammany, St. Bernard, Orleans, and Jefferson Parishes) in Louisiana; the National Health Agencies, and the International Welfare Agencies.

"The people associated with MTF have always been to the forefront in involvement with community affairs, a position we anticipate maintaining. Part of this involvement is our Combined Agencies Campaign and its subsequent donations to local United Funds.

"As area citizens we recognize our responsibilities and as community members, we recognize the importance of helping our less fortunate neighbor in his time of need," said Wallace Brown, 1972-73 drive chairman.

Brown also said that MTF Combined Agencies Campaign donors could designate the specific recipient or recipients of their contribution if they so desired.

Miss MTF Torch for 1971-72, Margaret Gill, is participating in this year's campaign as drive secretary. Formerly of Picayune, Mississippi, now a resident of Bogalusa, Louisiana, Mrs. Gill, nee Bennett, and her husband, Billy L. Gill, are the parents of two children, Billy, Jr., 14, and Glenda, 13.

The Combined Agencies Campaign is the single drive authorized to be conducted at the Mississippi Test Facility each year. Its principal purpose is to raise funds for organized charities and social agencies in neighboring communities.

Others on this year's campaign executive committee include: W.S. Fuller, executive assistant; Victor Franckiewicz, logistics; Dewey Little, grand sponsor; Dr. P. S. Edmonds, Thomas Hardison, special advisors; E. L. Lovell, publicity assistant; William Ezell, financial assistant; William Barre, director, Industrial Drive; H.H. Quinton, director, Federal Agencies Drive.

Presently appearing in the Medallion Room of the Ramada Inn, Long Beach, Mississippi, "Dianne and Chuck" have been billed among the most popular entertainers to play on the Gulf Coast. Their normal repertoire ranges from Old Time Favorites to current and popular renditions.

The entertainment stars, both of whom were former scouts, and both possessing first hand knowledge of the value of the United Fund, volunteered their services to the Combined Agencies Campaign immediately after hearing how the MTF drive benefitted the entire coast.

One of the reasons advanced for the pair's great popularity is their wide field of musical presentation, popular, folk and rock, including such well known songs as, Just a Bowl of Butterbeans, All I Ever Need Is You, Mr. Bojangles, and Sunday Morning Coming Down.

Local Welfare Report Given

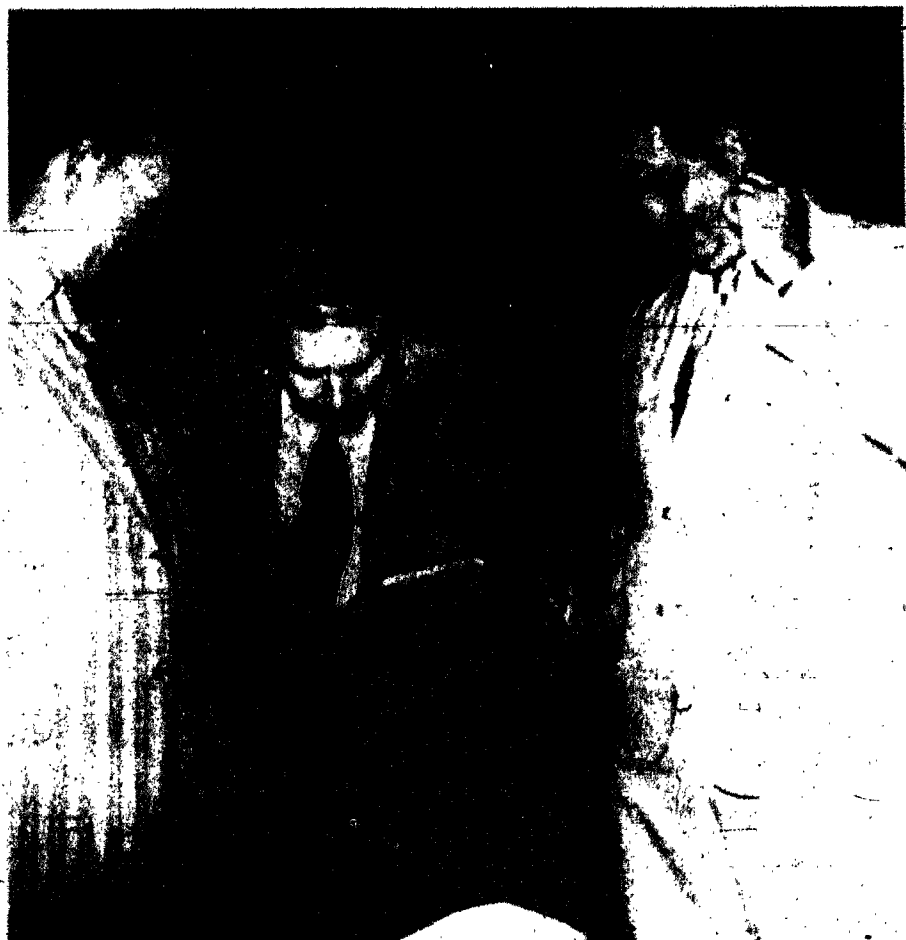

During the month of September, the State Department of Public Welfare issued $3,966,172 to 154,075 persons through its needy aged, blind, disabled and dependent children assistance programs. Each person who receives a welfare check is eligible for Medicaid. An additional 4,089 persons were determined eligible for Medicaid benefits only. This group includes needy caretakers, etc. They do not receive a welfare check.

Mrs. Lucretia Fly, director of the Hancock County Department of Public Welfare, reports 586 checks were issued to Hancock countians through the four public assistance programs; 70 applications requesting assistance were filed and 30 new public assistance cases were approved. The report shows 34 persons eligible for Medicaid only.

A total of $31,188 was spent overall for public assistance. Of this amount $17,060 went to 335 persons in the old age assistance category; $1,022 to 16 legally blind persons; $7,075 to 118 permanently and totally disabled persons. In the aid to dependent children category, 117 checks were issued for 321 children in the ADC grants. A total of $8,041 went to ADC families.

Director Fly added there were 54 active child welfare cases and 21 children in nine licensed foster homes in Hancock County. In addition, there are 90 active Service Cases.

A Greek tragedy - Part I

After some years of exposure, or over-exposure, via interminable meetings, conferences and such, an inalienable truth comes to the fore, viz. that federal government officials all have the same attitude of omnipotence, and are apparently divinely empowered to change their minds at a moment's notice, often having a devastating effect on the lesser populace.

Because of their exalted positions, they can, and often do, wave a magic wand, either showering billions of federal dollars on supplicating municipalities and governmental bodies, or with a single stroke, wipe out whole systems thereby destroying hopes and dreams of thousands of unsuspecting taxpayers.

It all started back in ancient days when mythical gods, lived in isolated splendor on Mount Olympus, where it never rained (except when Thor got in a fit of pique) and everyone existed on something called "nectar of the gods".

The primary form of diversion was people watching, or observing mere mortals as they bumbled through their humdrum lives. Not altogether irresponsible, the gods often descended from Olympus, individually or in small groups, and got into the act. Or if there wasn't much going on, they started something. Later, if they got bored with it, or if it wasn't coming off too well, they just passed it on to some lesser gods (which often led to a lot of demigods running around in confusion).

Things are not much different today; only the names have been changed to confuse the innocent. Olympus is now located in Washington and modern technology has provided today's gods, known as government officials, with high level manuals full of pat phrases to be used with the magic wand.

The state of omnipotence is conferred as soon as a neophyte god... pardon, a government official... learns his phrases and proves his readiness by dropping them at conferences and meetings. The phrases, carefully worked out by the U.S. Dept. of Standard Utterances, are designed to sound impressive but say nothing. The only demand by Washington is that NO ONE change one word of the phrases. Strict adherence to the letter is a must for all officials and is certainly understandable considering the army of federal officials constantly descending on the unsuspecting public. The manual states that all lower level city, county and state officials must be kept in the same state of suspended animation otherwise things would get out of hand and become rather messy.

The magic phrases in the manual are so designed to be applicable to all situations, such as requests for airports, sewer systems, residential and municipal rehabilitation, industrial parks, recreational facilities, and almost anything else one can think of - or ask for. The following are a few of the more popular standard utterances: "... think we should get together and do a feasibility study."

"I'm sure you realize our attitude about this is certainly not unfavorable but we have to consider the economics involved."

"If we make a firm commitment now we'll get the same flak from our superiors."

"When we made that commitment we had no idea Congress would cutback..."

"We're overspent on our budget already and Congress didn't..."

"We can't create money we don't have but you are on the top of the priority list for consideration whenever..."

"It certainly looks good, but some changes will have to be made."

"We'll try to work up a meeting with department heads and get back to you..."

"Don't call us, we'll call you."

Why doesn't someone write a manual for the lesser officials, like "How to Play the Government Grant Game", or "Kicking It Around in the Board Room Is Not The Answer".

In the final analysis, one realizes that all top level Gods are unified in one important aspect. Congress is the fall guy - the President just thinks he is! (Next Week: Stay tuned when a local official asks the musical question, "Where do all those federal laws come from?")

Senior Citizens Travel To N.O.

Thursday, October 5, 44 senior citizens and members of the American Association of Retired Persons enjoyed an all day visit to New Orleans, their first travel trip, under the direction of Eugene F. Hathaway.

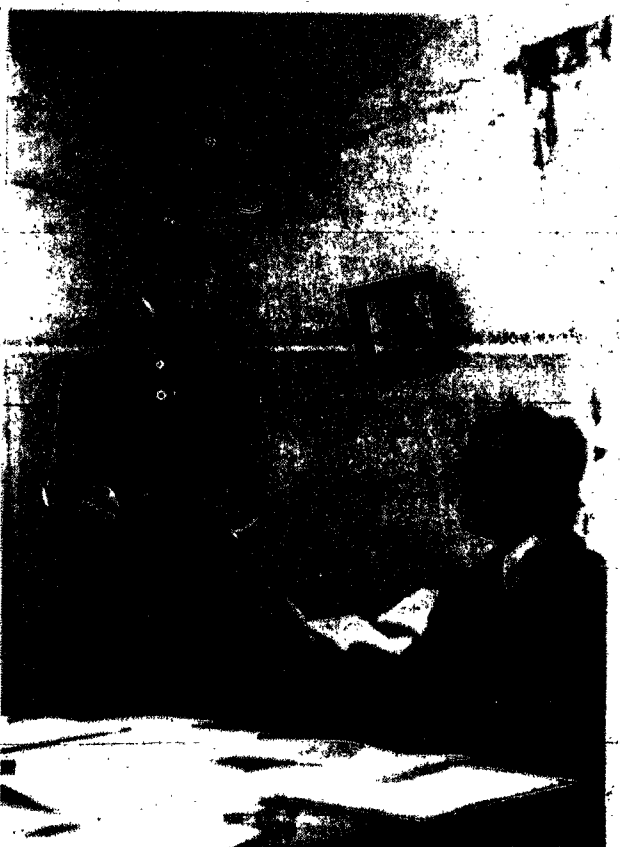

Leaving at 10:30 a.m. by chartered bus, they arrived at the new Marriot Hotel for luncheon in the Port of Orleans room on the roof, overlooking the city.

At 2 p.m. the group boarded the S.S. President for a three-hour cruise on the Mississippi. Many of the guests took pictures and movies, which should afford enjoyable memories of a lovely day.

The tired and happy group arrived home at 6:30 p.m. For some a trip of this kind was a first, for a few of them are rich, many are poor - very, very poor, and many are of the fortunate middle class. However, all are retired citizens of Hancock County, and members of the fast growing A.A.R.P., working together to help each other, to assist with the problems of loneliness, insecurity, hopelessness and hunger for love.

The next meeting of the A.A.R.P. will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at the Valena C. Jones Center in Bay St. Louis. All senior citizens are invited to join.

Put An End To Dangerous Fun

Practical jokes really aren't very funny.
Ask Peter Lamb.
Peter, who is a 13-year-old student at St. Stanislaus, was riding his bike on Hancock Street when someone from a passing car threw a water balloon in his face, causing serious damage to one of his eyes. He is now in Gulfport Memorial Hospital.
Now perhaps the "practical joker" who threw the balloon meant no harm but the motive makes no difference when someone is injured.
Children and their parents should consider the danger that can result when someone is "just having a little fun". Particularly with Halloween right around the corner.
Many Halloween nights have been spoiled by children doing a little more tricking than treating. Things such as firecrackers and water balloons, although not illegal, can be lethal weapons in the hands of irresponsible persons out to have a good time.
Accidental injuries and deaths are doubly tragic because they can be prevented.
So, make sure your children are warned against playing practical jokes.
They really aren't funny.
Ask Peter Lamb.

What Has Happened?

The following was submitted to the Echo by an interested reader. The Echo has decided to publish it verbatim.
What has happened to the Bay St. Louis and Waveland areas? What has happened to the towns where I grew up, where you could walk down the street and everyone would stop to tell you hello and talk for a minute? Is that feeling of love and concern forgotten, or has it been brushed aside with feelings of pettiness, selfishness and pride?
I was born and raised in this area, and I care very much about the towns of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and the county. I can remember times when these towns were full of life, everyone was happy, everyone knew everyone else, and everyone cared about everyone else. These were communities in which someone's problems were everyone's problems. Now all I see is an attitude of not even trying to help, but just worrying about one's own problems. I feel an attitude in which the people of Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Hancock County have given up on trying to do anything worthwhile for their communities.
I realize that we have had problems with the elected officials of these areas, but I also realize that we, the citizens and qualified voters of the city and county, have elected these men, and therefore, we should not wholly blame the officials for the bad things that have happened here. It is time that we accept our part of the blame, because, when we do not feel that an official is doing right by us, we do not try in any way to help him or back him up. All we do is stand behind him and gripe about what he's doing or not doing. This is our fault, and we can no longer push this blame on the person who was officially authorized to accomplish a duty. He is just as human as we, and he can make mistakes the same as we, but we don't seem to take that into consideration.
We, the people of Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County, have been and are, dwelling too much upon the petty, unimportant things, when there are much greater issues at stake -- that is, the issue of whether this area will survive this quarrelling and dissension, whether it can once more regain this care and concern for its communities. People, look at your towns and your county, and see how ghostly they look, see how downtrodden they look, and feel the attitude of contempt.
I have only lived here for 23 years, but I am afraid that those younger than I who are growing up in this area are watching their parents fight over things that matter very little, instead of working together for a common goal -- their community. The example being set for these children is disgusting, and that we cannot blame on the elected officials. I am ashamed to walk down the street with anyone, ashamed of my community, because the older ones, who are supposed to be setting the example, don't care what happens here. All they want to do is gripe about what this one got, or about what that one did not get, or about what this official did or did not do. Can we ever come together again, and work together for this area? I will give the officials one thing -- and that is that they are trying.
I am begging the people of Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County to stop and think about this. I am asking you people to look at your children and see what kind of an example is being set before them.
What has happened to Bay St. Louis? What has happened to Waveland? What has happened to Hancock County? What will you do about it?

Chamber Report

By Sylvia McComiskey

Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Manager

The Chamber of Commerce is happy to announce that, according to Mr. Sidney Kidd, Mississippi State Highway Department, a flashing amber light is to be installed on the Bay St. Louis Bridge, along with larger signal heads facing this dangerous intersection. (Highway 90 and North Beach Blvd.). In a letter from Mr. Kidd received by the Chamber earlier this week, he stated that "We are securing the necessary materials and will erect larger signal heads facing traffic approaching on U.S. 90. We will also erect a flasher, mounted in the side of the bridge, for westbound traffic approaching this intersection." No mention was made concerning our request for larger signal lights at other intersections through Bay St. Louis and Waveland, but we intend to follow-up on this and find out if this request is being denied. In the meantime, we should certainly be appreciative of the action that has been taken at the most dangerous of our intersections and hope to have our entire request fulfilled in the near future. Perhaps this would not have been achieved if other organizations, when requested, had not joined forces with us in presenting our plea to Mr. Kidd. Could there be something to success through working together? We extend our thanks to the Jaycees, Citizens Involvement Committee, Beautification and Cleanup Committee and Bay St. Louis City Officials for their support in this endeavor.

The Mississippi State Fair is underway in Jackson at the State Fairgrounds. The fair started Tuesday, October 10 and will continue through Tuesday, October 17. Hours daily are 10 a.m. - 10 p.m. and General Admission is $1.00 per person, which will include activities in the Coliseum. There is no better way to receive an education on your State than to attend a State Fair. Anyone who possibly can go will certainly benefit from it.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

City-County Library Writer

It is a curious thing that trends of thought and modes of living are marked by the music that accompanies them. The songs and instrumental numbers of the days of knighthood gave way to the rolistering music of the seventeenth-hundreds and this in turn quieted into the rather plaintive mood of the time of the settlement of our country. Since then our music has gone through many changes, each reflecting the mood of the times; by listing these changes one could almost tell when our people were gay, serious or sad.

The period when Mississippi was settled, a century and a half ago, was one of hard work, danger and slim living, and the music sung by the settlers was serious and earnest, with emphasis on religious songs. In lighter vein there were Old Dan Tucker and Pop! Goes the Weasel, and one of the greatest songs of hope and courage written as the Mormon train was threading the mountains into Utah, Come, Come Ye Saints, Saints.

The 50s saw a turn toward romance. Here we had the immortal songs of Stephen Foster, and plaintive ditties like Listen to the Mocking Bird, and serious numbers like Nearer, My God, to Thee, In the Sweet Bye and Bye, and later The Little Brown Church in the Vale. Then came the war, with patriotic songs almost without number, headed in the South by Dixie and Bonnie Blue Flag (written in Jackson during the convention to ratify the formation of the Confederacy), and in the North by Battle Hymn of the Republic, Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! and the song that always makes true Southerners grind their teeth in rage, Marching Through Georgia. Besides these there were others sung by the soldiers of both sides, such as Tenting Tonight, Lorena, Little Brown Jug, and The Old Oaken Bucket.

When life got back to normal again after the war, there was more humor in the popular songs. Then we had Bill Bailey and, later, Frankie and Johnny, but we also had sentiment in The Quilting Party, When You and I Were Young, Maggie, and the west began to enter the song cycle with The Streets of Laredo and The Old Chisholm Trail. Jesse James was always popular at that time, as was The Wabash Cannon Ball and the nostalgic White Wings. The new century gave us the Spanish war and many fine songs such as Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight, and Oh, Dem Golden Slippers. We will continue our rapid whirl through songland in our next column, but there is some information we'd like to have, and maybe you can supply it; you may have noticed that there has been no reference to songs about the yellow fever epidemics, the business crash in the late 1890s, or Reconstruction or the Ku Klux Klan. Were there no songs written about these events? We will be most grateful if you can supply this information.

School Guidelines Set For Special Students

A newly-formed advisory committee of public school principals, teachers, an attorney and a member of the school board met last week in Bay St. Louis to draw up guidelines for a new policy governing the inclusion of married or pregnant students in the Bay-Waveland public schools.

The eight-member committee was composed of school board attorney Sam Favre, school superintendent J.D. McCullough, senior high school principal Robert Magee, junior high school principal W. J. Cameron, assistant superintendent Donald Caldwell, Mrs. Juanita Irwin and Miss Judy Thomas, home economics teachers at the two high schools, and school board member Mrs. Joseph Gex.

Under former regulations set by McCullough some 15 years ago, married and/or pregnant students were automatically banned from attendance in the public schools.

The new policy compiled by the committee closely follows state board of education guidelines working on the premise that public educational facilities should be available to all school-age youth.

At a school board meeting Monday night, Mrs. Gex said the advisory committee had considered policies now in effect in numerous other state communities before adopting that which was submitted for board approval Monday night. Mrs. Gex explained that considerable discussion of the many aspects of individual cases preceded adoption of the following policy, which supercedes the former ruling:

1. All students who are married or pregnant shall apply directly to the Superintendent of Schools for entrance into the school system. In the event that the applicant is not satisfied with the decision of the superintendent, he or she may appeal to the Board of Trustees.

2. The Board of Education has no restriction on a married student attending school other than that they obey all school rules as any other student.

3. A pregnant student shall notify the principal at least four (4) months prior to the "date of expectancy". The student must leave school and may return at the beginning of the next year.

In other business, the board accepted a motion by Thomas Kidd, seconded by Emile Hazeur, to investigate the possibility of hiring a Certified Public Accountant firm or individual to audit

Two Plead Guilty

A change of plea from not guilty to guilty on a charge of petit larceny was entered by two Bay St. Louis men in circuit court proceedings Monday before Judge Floyd Logan.

Robert C. Carver and Howard J. Rapp, Jr., were arraigned July 17 for attempted theft of a 1971 Marin boat motor, valued at $39.95, from TG&Y in Bay St. Louis. Monday both youths changed earlier pleas of not guilty to the charge. Assistant District Attorney Harold DeMetz recommended a maximum fine of $100 for Carver as the defendant had no record of prior arrest in criminal court and consider the defense attorney's plea for clemency regarding a hardship condition of the defendant's family.

Trucks Collide At Intersection

Only minor injuries were sustained by four persons involved in a two-truck collision early Monday about 3:45 a.m. at the intersection of Highway 90 and Highway 803 in Waveland.

According to an accident report by Sheriff's Deputy Lathon Garriga, both vehicles involved were 1971 Ford pickup trucks. Garriga said Truman McGee, New Orleans, driving one truck south on Highway 803 toward Nicholson Ave., was struck by the other truck, driven by Jimmy Lee Avery, Route 2, Perkinston, traveling west on Highway 90. Avery was pulling a trailer loaded with 500 gallons of diesel fuel and told Garriga he couldn't stop quickly enough when the light turned red, causing him to collide with the other vehicle.

On impact the trailer broke loose from the truck, coming to a stop in the east bound lane. The truck careened off the highway and ran approximately 500 feet into the woods before coming to a stop. The two drivers as well as two passengers in Avery's truck were brought to Hancock General Hospital for observation and later released. Both trucks were a total loss, Garriga said. Avery was cited by the deputy for running a red light.

Auxiliary Administers Tests To First Graders

School students usually don't mind taking tests when there is no grade involved - and when the results won't go on their report cards.

This is the case with 116 first graders at North Bay Elementary who are currently being screened and tested by members of the Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary. Under the auspices of the Coastal Mental Health Program, the tests are designed to identify children with potential learning problems in the early stages of their academic career.

According to Dr. Ray Cox, psychologist for the Coastal Mental Health Program, the testing involves four phases: language, physical movements, fine motor movements and intelligence. The Junior Auxiliary volunteers, who were trained by Cox to administer these tests, screen eight children each week at St. Augustine's Seminary. They score each child and turn over the results to Dr. Cox.

"Basically, these tests will show the areas where a student is weak and can be helped by additional in-

Diamondhead Garden Club Organizing

Plans are now underway to organize a Diamondhead Garden Club according to Mrs. W.L. Temple.

Mrs. Temple announced that a meeting was held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. and the program for the entire year was presented at that time.

Mrs. Temple comes to Diamondhead with years of invaluable experience as past President and founder of Bayou LaCombe Garden Club, which federated the same year (1963). She is a past member of Whispering Pines Garden Club, Country Club Estates in Covington, and a present associate member of the Slidell Garden Club. She has been active in this club for 13 years; her specialty is flower arranging and shows.

All residents and members interested in beautifying their home grounds, or lots, contact Mrs. Temple at 452-9551.

ALTAR BOYS

A special meeting will be held at 6 o'clock this evening in Our Lady of the Gulf Church for boys who are interested in becoming altar boys.

struction," Cox said. "This will prevent some students from reaching high school, only to find out that he has a reading problem," he added.

In addition, the Program has obtained the free services of a Special Education Materials specialist who will work with North Bay teachers in trying to solve some of the teaching problems.

"The tests are designed for remedial teaching," Cox pointed out, but we have to direct the teachers as to how they can help."

When the tests are completed, Cox will meet with the teachers and the materials specialist to work out a possible program within the Bay St. Louis School System.

"The main goal of the program is to educate the community and the school system as to the variety of tests available. When there is a problem child in a classroom, not only does he not benefit from school but he or she hinders the other children," Cox concluded.

The program should be completed by January, Cox said. He further pointed out that this program, through the services of the Junior Auxiliary is being offered without cost to the community.

Junior Auxiliary member Mrs. James Woodfin, is chairman of the project.

TIP Makes 24 Arrests Since August, 1972

Earl Riley, executive director of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission, has announced that the TIP, Turn In A Pusher, Program, co-sponsored by the seven Coast Chambers of Commerce, has received 878 valid "tips" since the inception of the program on November 19, 1972.

Riley said, "there have been 114 arrests resulting from these 'tips', 24 arrests since August, 1972. In addition to the $50.00 paid out to date in reward money for 'tips' resulting in conviction of pushers, the evaluation and payment of other rewards are presently under consideration by the 'Tip' Committee."

"The figure of 878", according to Riley, "consists of those 'tips' considered of substance and can be implemented in police files or provides the basis for the initiation of investigations by narcotic officers. Very often the police department has an existing file on the reported pusher, but the 'Tip' information in many instances does provide that elusive bit of information which the investigating officer needs to 'make the case.'"

Riley commended the public on its recognition of the narcotics problem here on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and the various police agencies for their initiative and strength in combatting this problem. "The people of the Gulf Coast, too," said Riley, "can take considerable pride in the recognition being given the 'Tip' Program here on the Coast throughout the Nation. Reader's Digest, in its current issue, mentions the Mississippi Coast 'Tip' Program, as does the October issue of the Kiwanis magazine. There is a possibility, too, that recognition will be given our 'Tip' Program in a Sunday supplement in the near future."

Tigers Bow To Red Rebels

The Bay High Tigers lost their second Gulf Coast Conference football game of the season losing to the Red Rebels of Harrison Central by a score of 20-10.

The Red Rebels scored first on a punt return of 74 yards by Maurice Bell in the first quarter. The extra point attempt by Jay Daniel was good making the score 7-0.

Bay High intercepted a Rebel pass on the Rebels 20-yard line on the last play of the first quarter and returned it to the four-yard line. After three plays Alan Mastayer scored from the one yard line. Sam Piazza kicked the extra point making the score 7-7 and the first half ended that way.

In the third quarter the Tigers drove from their own 33 to within inches of the goal line but could not get the ball across. On fourth down and 13 Sam Piazza kicked a field goal giving the Tigers a 10-7 lead.

In the fourth quarter Daniel intercepted a Tiger pass on his own 20-yard line and returned it 80 yards for a Rebel TD. Gene Crum, kicked the extra point making the score 14-10.

The final score of the game came with 2:01 left in the game when Tiger quarterback Fred Bilbo was tackled at his own seven yard line and fumbled. Leon Farmer covered the ball in the end zone for the score. The extra point attempt was no good.

Still climbing—your use of electricity and the cost of supplying it.

In August, Mississippi Power Company's customers used a record half-a-billion kilowatt-hours of electricity. Every summer customer usage reaches a new peak as more and more people seek the comfort of air conditioning in the hot, humid weather. Some summers, such as this past one, the heat wave is a little longer and warmer than usual, and the amount of electricity used is even greater.

Our construction program must stay ahead of customers' power needs; otherwise, there would be brownouts or blackouts and a slowing of the economic progress of southeast Mississippi. This year alone we will spend over $57 million for new electric service facilities — generating plants, substations, and lines. That's about $220,000 each working day, which is also a record.

Inflation, plus the necessity of providing the latest equipment for environmental protection, has added millions of dollars to the cost of construction. Operating expenses, including such varied items as interest on debt, fuel for generation, wages, and tax payments, have also risen sharply.

Our customers demand reliable electric service to make their lives a little healthier, safer, and more comfortable. While inflation has driven the price of that service somewhat higher than it was several years ago, electricity is still a bargain. But even bargains cost money.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

The weather for the past week has been ideal for fishing and crabbing, with no rain to spoil the day. Tides have been a little erratic at times, falling late in the afternoon, which made it bad for fresh water fishing. However, a few bass and perch were caught on each trip. A few speckles are being caught here and there but nothing to brag about. The talk of the day is the big croakers being caught most everywhere.

The play offs for the world series are now being played so the series should be next week. According to tradition bull croakers make their appearance in the well-known croaker hole at that time. They are caught by the hundreds and average 2 to 2½ pounds. All that is needed is fresh (dead) shrimp and a casting rod.

There have been more flounders caught this year than in a long time. They are still being caught and will be for some time.

Mud Minnows, if you know what they are? (I don't). Fishermen say they are an excellent bait for catching Speckle Trout, and stay alive for some time. Might go by some other name? Speckle Trout will hit artificial plugs in cold weather by casting and trolling.

Duck hunting is next on the agenda. Below is the 1972-73 Hunting Seasons for Louisiana. Cut it out and save for future reference.

MIGRATORY GAME BIRDS SHOOTING HOURS:

1. Doves: 12 noon to sunset.

BONUS DUCKS:
(Additional to above duck limits) 2 way split: Nov. 4-Nov. 26, Dec. 16-Jan. 11. Scaup (bluebill, dusky): Daily bag limit 2, possession 4. South of the Intracoastal Waterway.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK A happy looking and likable fellow is Henry Gonzales. Henry is mostly a fisherman. He does his fishing by wading out in the water, waist deep. His fishing partner is his brother Walter. Speckle trout is his meat.

the aggregate, Possession 30. Sora and Virginia; Daily Bag and Possession Limits 25 in the aggregate.

Most of our local duck hunters hunt out in the Louisiana marshes. However, others hunt ducks in Miss. Will try to run the Mississippi hunting schedules and bag limits next week.

Was a pleasure meeting J. Lloyd Mutter of New Orleans. Lloyd does both fresh and salt water fishing. Has a boat which he keeps at the Chef and uses to good advantage. He is a brother to Ben Mutter, local sportsman.

Was good talking to Pedro Fuentes who lives in the Kln. Pedro does mostly Speckle Trout fishing and his specialty is trolling for them up Jordan Bay when they are running. Nothing better in our way of thinking, Pedro. He is the son of the late Judge Fuente.

Another swell guy is Robert M. Sargent of the Bay. He fishes, hunts and plays golf when he has time. Bob is the Plant Controller for Eljer Plumbingware Division, Wallace-Murray Corp.

Henry Montl, Gus Almes, Jr., Andre Arceneaux, Bill Frisbie, and Bill Phillips caught 4 chests of Speckles, Red Fish, etc. out in the marsh over the week-end. All are ardent fishermen and local boys. Enough said.

Al Vecker, commander of the American Legion, when not busy, spends his time fishing after the busy tribe. Al gets his share of fish, you can bet. Throws in some hunting, too.

Forgot Alden Mauffray's accident last week. He was carrying his outboard motor when he tripped over his boat and fell. Was bruised pretty badly, but is getting ok. Still going fishing, however.

Ory Bourgeois, another of our old-time fisherman and hunters, is still knitting cast nets, landing nets, etc. He is one of the bridge tenders on the hi-way. Occupies his time at his favorite past time, knitting. Fishes a little, he said.

Bud Taconi said he is taking life easy since his retirement. Bud used to be with Miss. Marine Conservation. Is an old-time fisherman and hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lindsley (Millie) are visiting her mother, Mrs. Richard Anthony, her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Ms. E. J. Livandals and niece, Miss Nancy Cuevas. They are down from Seattle, Wash. As a pastime, Lee fishes and files model airplanes. He catches mostly Salmon.

J. Burton Angelle, Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission director, announced that a limited quantity of osprey maps of 21 Louisiana lakes are available for distribution.

Lakes charted include: Bisteneau, Black Bayou, Bruin, Bussey, Cheniere, Chicot, Claiborne, Concordia, Cross, D'Arbonne, False River, Henderson, Kepler, Lafourche, Larto, Louis, Old River, Providence, St. John, and Turkey Creek.

Angelle said that due to the limited supply, only three maps per person will be sent upon request, and all requests should be mailed to: Film Library, Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, P.O. Box 44095, Capitol Station, Baton Rouge, Louisiana 70804.

These lakes are all excellent fishing places. Fishing in them is an added interest.

There will be plenty decisions to be made when the world series is on. Whether to go fishing or watch the games. To settle it, take a radio when you go fishing. Fish and hear the results at the same time.

Duck stamps can be purchased at the local post office. Get one before you go duck hunting.

Met S. G. Shaw who has a home here. It gave left water fishing and plays golf. There is no better two sports. Know his family quite well. He is a family man and his fishing and hunting were great friends. He is with them often. He is with them often. He is with them often.

When a group of white Pelicans were seen down Waveland way recently. First time these birds were hereabout for years. I did not stay long.

Edna White said she has been getting a few fish. He is one of our best catchers and gets his share of speckles.

when they are running. His wife enjoys fishing, too.

Henry Carver has quit catching uppers (turtles). Don't hear of anyone going after them anymore. They are upland turtles and are gotten with a long wire hook and taken from their hole in the ground. Good eating with spaghetti.

Gary Measick is moving to the Gulf Coast from New Orleans. Gary loves hunting and fishing. Hunting squirrels and rabbits is his specialty.

America!

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

A MAN OF GREAT VISION . . . the kind of vision that has followed in all events that has made America the great nation.

Columbus and his crews of the Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina suffered all kinds of hardships, fears and doubts while crossing an uncharted sea, but their determination lead to the opening of a New World to the use and knowledge of Europeans.

This same vision was used 128 years later when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620.

So now, when we honor this man on his day of discovery, each October 12th, it is appropriate for us to "rediscover America," and turn our attention to the principles, purposes and ideals that have brought this nation to its present greatness.

Let us have the vision to review the history of our progress the past 480 years and regain the faith of our forefathers to be better equipped for the future.

WE SERVICE ALL MAKES OF CARS

Isn't there someone you'd like to be near? Get in touch by long distance. Call today. And dial it direct.

Dialing direct is easy. Here's how: First dial "1," plus the area code (if it's different from yours), plus the number. If by chance you get a wrong number, just call the operator and tell her what happened. She'll make sure you're not charged. So keep in touch the personal way. Dial long distance direct and save.
